

Sometimes the impact of a university is felt far beyond the lecture hall.

Five Colleges

College of Osteopathic Medicine of the Pacific – our founding college.

College of Allied Health Professions

College of Pharmacy

College of Graduate Nursing

College of Veterinary Medicine

Seven Key Facts

- The first College of Veterinary Medicine in Southern California and the first in the nation in over 20 years is on the university campus.
- The University Medical Center offers ambulatory health care services to over 10,000 local patients annually regardless of their ability to pay.
- The university is home to the nationally renowned Center for Disability Issues and the Health Professions.
- The university brings millions of dollars to the region and local economy and provides hundreds of jobs for local residents.
- 1,545 students attend the university now and by 2006 the student body will grow to over 2000.
- There are more than 4,500 alumni serving in health care practices all over the world.
- Total assets approach $100 million.

One of America's leading universities admired for its vision, education and innovation.

Western University of Health Sciences has made a powerful impact on the economy and the health of Pomona Valley, Southern California and the nation for more than a quarter-century.

Today, this thriving, independent, nonprofit, fully accredited graduate institution of health sciences located in downtown Pomona stands alone among academic health care centers because of its compassionate education in the health care professions.

Now as the university increases enrollment, adds new faculty and staff, and plans for new facilities and programs, it pledges to continue to positively impact the quality of life of all those it touches.

In service to humanity since 1977. Visit our website at www.westernu.edu

"The university's unique blend of science and compassion has earned it a national reputation," according to Founding President Philip Pumerantz.

Western University
OF HEALTH SCIENCES

The discipline of learning. The art of caring.

Western University of Health Sciences • 309 E. Second Street
Pomona, CA 91766 • 909-623-6116

