

New @ the Library

June, 2009

June 30, 2009

New library database: VisionCite

The Pumerantz Library now has an online subscription to the vision science database VisionCite .

VisionCite is a periodical index of over 225,000 articles from medical, ophthalmic, optic, optometric, and vision related journals indexed and made available to search. Use VisionCite in conjunction with PubMed for a comprehensive search of the available vision science literature. VisionCite indexes 104 journals in this field of study and is produced by the Illinois College of Optometry Carl F. Shepard Library.

You may access VisionCite on or off campus from the Library's Electronic Resource page under Article Searching and Databases, from our Optometry LibGuide under the Databases tab, or by copying and pasting this link <http://proxy.westernu.edu:2048/login?url=http://www.visioncite.com> into your internet browser's address bar. When accessing remotely you will need to log in using your WesternU email username and password.

Once you are on the VisionCite webpage please click on IP Verification to enter the database.