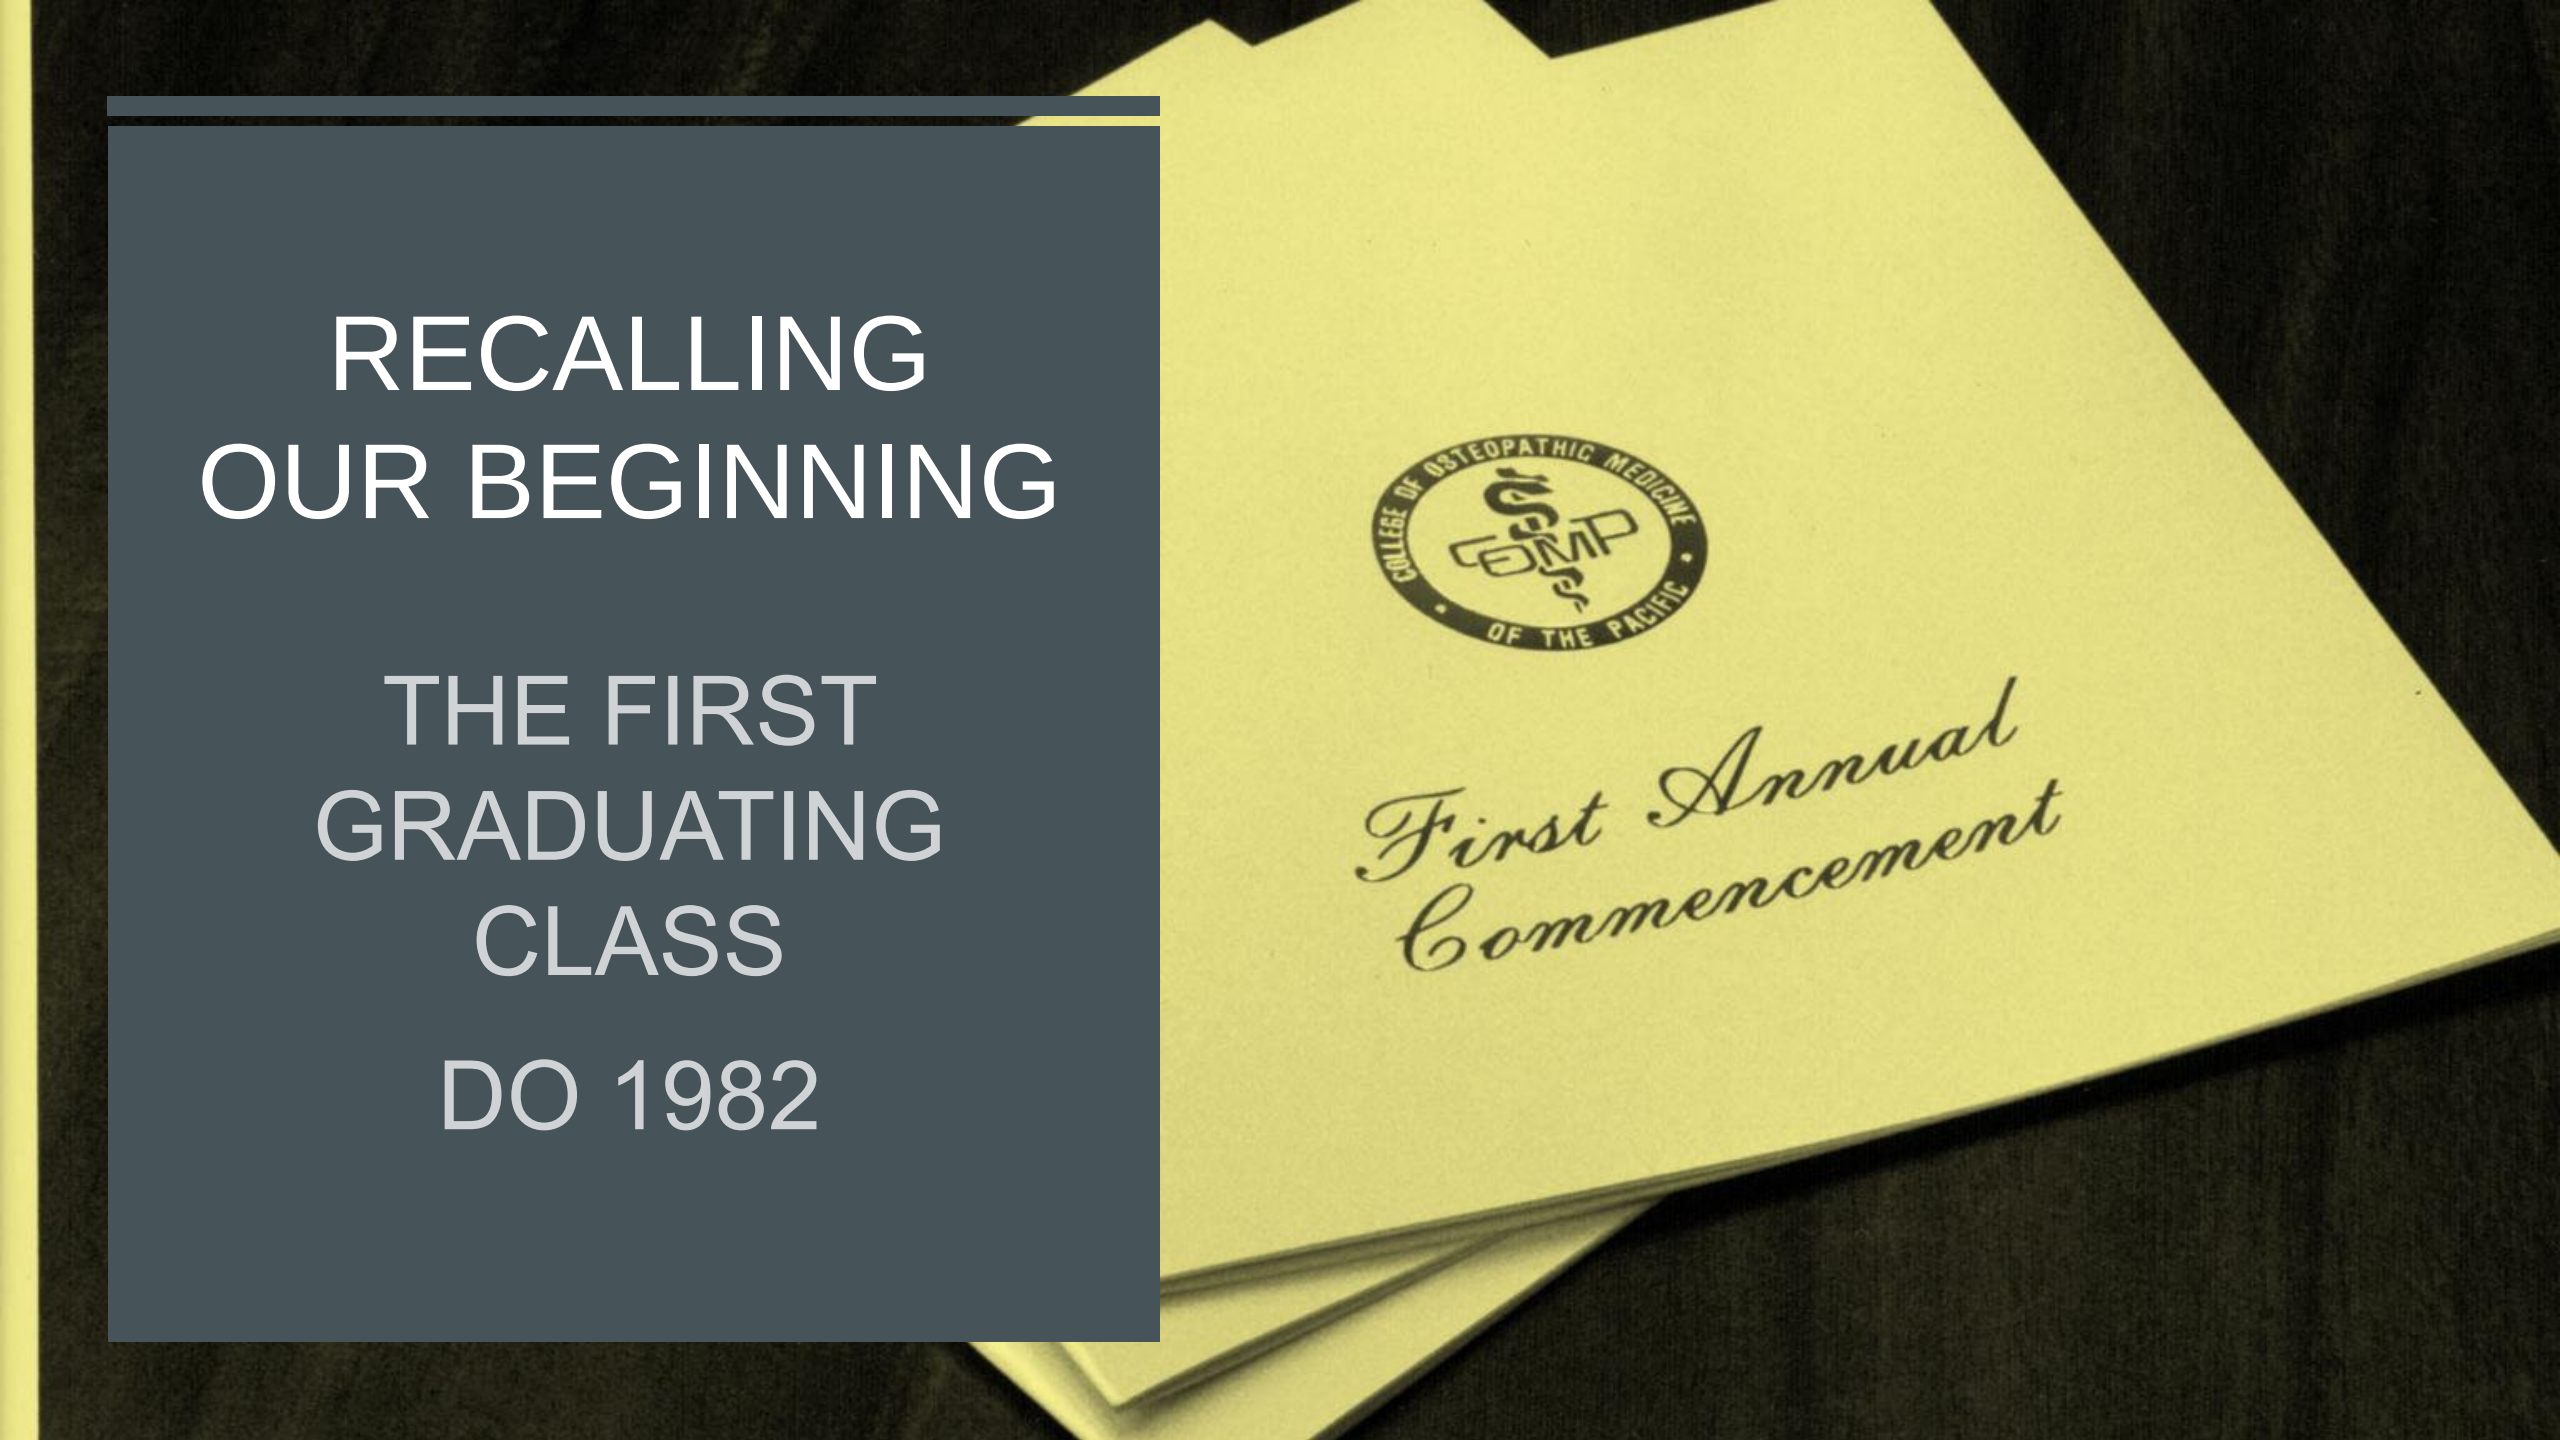
RECALLING OUR BEGINNING

THE FIRST GRADUATING CLASS

DO 1982



The College of Osteopathic Medicine of the Pacific (COMP) first opened its doors in a former J.C. Penny store in the fall of 1978 marking the return of Osteopathic Medicine to California.

Through the dedication and hard work of the founders and doners the Doctor of Osteopathy degree was conferred on the 31 graduates of the Charter Class in a formal ceremony held on June 13, 1982.

An elegant Senior Banquet-Ball was held in the Bonaventure Hotel in Los Angeles on the evening of June 12, 1982.

The next day the Commencement Ceremony for the first graduating class was held in Bridges Auditorium in nearby Claremont, California.
