

CONFLICT OF INTEREST DISCLOSURE FORM PACKET

Guidance on Conflicts of Interest (COI) in Research

Purpose

This guidance ensures transparency and integrity in research by defining key terms, outlining disclosure requirements, and illustrating common COI scenarios for Covered Individuals (faculty, staff, postdocs, and others responsible for research design, conduct, or reporting).

Operating Definitions

Covered Individual: Anyone responsible for the design, conduct, or reporting of research, including PIs, co-investigators, and project directors.

Family Member: Includes spouse, dependent children, and any person financially dependent on the Covered Individual or sharing joint financial interests.

Conflict of Interest (COI): Any situation that could bias—or appear to bias—research decisions. COIs may be financial or non-financial.

Financial Conflict of Interest (FCOI): A financial interest that could directly and significantly affect the design, conduct, or reporting of research.

Institutional Responsibilities: All professional duties performed on behalf of WesternU, including research, teaching, clinical practice, and committee service.

Research: Any systematic investigation intended to contribute to generalizable knowledge, including basic and applied research and product development.

Disclosure Requirements

Disclose within 30 days of employment, annually, and within 30 days of acquiring a new interest.

Significant Financial Interests ($\geq$ \$5,000) include payments, equity, IP rights, royalties, sponsored travel, gifts > \$500, fiduciary roles, in-kind support, and outside research activities. Exclusions: internal salary, government/academic income, advisory service income, investment vehicles without direct control, government-sponsored travel.

Examples of COI Scenarios

- A PI owns stock in a company sponsoring their research project.
- A faculty member receives consulting fees from a pharmaceutical company whose drug is being tested in their lab.
- A researcher holds a patent on a device being evaluated in a clinical trial they oversee.
